

Nana Star

Tuesday, 08 July 2008

There's nothing better than curling up with your child and sharing a good book. And thanks to ee publishing and productions ("the laugh-friendly company"), storytime just got even better. The Nana Star books follow the adventures of a little girl who finds a lost baby star and tries to bring him home. The heartwarming books, Nana Star and its sequel Nana Star and the Moonman are both beautifully written and illustrated. What's more, both come with a Bonus CD, featuring the accompanying song and story. Also available for purchase are the Nana Star doll and light-up Moonman Lovey, perfect new friends for your child. The stories were by two sisters, Elizabeth Sills and Elena Patrice, and gorgeously illustrated by Linda Saker. The stories are not only moving, but the company is inspiring as well: a portion of Nana Star proceeds benefits The Nana Star Foundation, which helps both under-resourced schools as well as terminally ill children. Which makes these stories not only enjoyable, but truly special. For more information, visit the website here.